Schlitz Co.'s, Kenosha Saloon

Kenosha, Wis., Feb. 22.—A license was granted by the council last night for the opening of a saloon in the Bendt building which has been bought by the Schlitz company of Milwaukee. A protest against granting a license was presented in a petition signed by several hundred citizens, but the license was granted in spite of the remonstrance. The chief objection to the saloon comes from the members of the Lutheran church, and is based on the fact that a city ordinance regulates that a saloon shall not be opened in a building within 300 feet of a public school. The Lutheran church and school are within prescribed distance. It is said, however, that some compromise has been reached between the brewing company and the church members. At any rate, a saloon was in full running order today.

COURT OF INQUIRY AGAIN IN SESSION

WENT INTO EXECUTIVE SESSION THIS MORNING.

Surgeon Daly, Who Made Analysis of Beef, Was the First Witness, and Said Attention Was Attracted to the Beef Because the Flies Would Not Go Near It.

Washington, Feb. 22.—[Special]—Gen. Miles' Court of Inquiry went into executive session this morning immediately after convening.

Surgeon Daly, who made a chemical analysis of the alleged bad beef was the first witness called when opening the session resumed. He said his attention was attracted to beef, because flies would not go near it. He cooked and ate a piece, because he was nauseated and vomited. Captain Breckham, of the substance department testified that the beef on the Transport Rio Grande could not be eaten and all of it was thrown overboard.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Tuesday's testimony before the military court of inquiry was largely in support of the evidence given by Gen. Miles to the court and of his statement before the investigation. Three things were apparently established by the testimony. In the first place, it appears to be fairly well settled that if there was any embalming of the beef furnished to the army at Santiago it certainly was not a general process, but was resorted to only in isolated cases. In fact, the majority of the witnesses examined expressly declared that no idea of any chemical treatment had ever entered their heads; nor had they heard the matter discussed during the campaign.

In the second place it was shown that while canned cornbeef has been a staple army ration for years, canned roast beef is a new thing and apparently has not stood the test of use in the campaign. Practically all the witnesses declared that the canned roast beef furnished the army was mushy, stringy, unpalatable and made the men sick.

In the third place, it was said by the witnesses, who were all regular army officers, that on the whole the refrigerated beef was fairly good. They united in supporting the contention of Gen. Miles that for an army in the field, or in camp, when not engaged in actual fighting, there was nothing equal to live cattle killed at night and the meat served out in the morning. This is a strong point for Gen. Miles in his controversy with Secretary Alger, for the general repeatedly asked for cattle on the hoof, and was systematically turned down by the secretary and the commissary-general. The testimony taken today seemed to show much greater incapacity in the subsistence department under Gen. Egan than was developed by the commission.

COURT REVERSES IMPORTANT CASES

CROUSE SUIT COMES BACK FOR NEW TRIAL.

Rock County Jury Awarded the Injured Engineer Twenty Thousand Dollars—In the Case of Lawrence Ward Versus St. Paul Road, Court Makes Special Ruling.

The state supreme court handed down two important decisions yesterday of special local interest.

They reversed the decision in the case of George Crouse vs. the Chicago & Northwestern railroad company. This means that the case will again be tried before a Rock county jury.

The plaintiff is an ex-engineer on the Northwestern railroad, who resides in this city at 181 Terrace street.

In 1896 Mr. Crouse was injured in a freight wreck near this city while acting as engineer. It was alleged that the wreck was the result of a washout beneath the track and that such washout was the result of carelessness on the part of the company on account of not properly caring for their property.

When the case was tried in the circuit court of Rock county, the jury awarded the plaintiff $20,000 damages.

The other decision reversed was also tried in the circuit court of Rock county and was entitled, action of Lawrence Ward against the St. Paul road. In this case the court settles the rule in this state regarding special verdicts when given to jurors with general verdicts. The court says that hereafter the rule in this state shall be that no special verdict shall be given a jury together with a general verdict when there is objection made by either party to the suit. The decisions in the past have been in some conflict on this point, but this decision clears the question, and makes the rule in such instances absolute.

Mr. Ward, the plaintiff, in the lower court, and respondent in the supreme court, sued the railroad company for damages for the loss of several toes as the result of having his foot crushed while standing on the platform of an excursion train running from Orfordville to Janesville. The jury in the circuit court gave him $500 on a special verdict. The attorneys for the railroad company appealed on the ground that the jury should not have been allowed to render the two verdicts, and the supreme court upholds their position. Justice Winslow, who writes the opinion, says that the special verdict with its questions requiring the jury to find separate decisions on separate questions of fact was designed to secure fair verdicts free from prejudice, and to allow the jury to bring in a general verdict with the special one is to defeat the purpose of the special verdict law.

In 1897 the defendants awarded a contract to the plaintiff for building an addition to the hotel at a cost of $1,500. For this work Mr. Goodrich received all of his money except $250. MR. CHADWICK TELLS ABOUT HIS WORK

HE ENFORCES DAIRY AND FOOD LAWS WELL.

Gathers His Own Evidence, and Thus Knows Just What Kind of a Case He Will Have When He Gets Into Court—Prosecutions at Superior.

W. W. Chadwick, inspector of dairy and food on the state commission, swore out warrants at Superior for the arrest of six hotel and restaurant keepers in that city and today the warrants were served by the sheriff's deputies. The charge upon which the arrests are made is that of using oleomargarine, colored in imitation of butter.

In talking about the arrests Inspector Chadwick had some interesting things to say to a Telegram reporter regarding his methods of collecting evidence, the prevalence of the evil and the general scope and intention of the law governing the sale of oleomargarine. He said:

"I have no doubt that when the proprietors of the hotels against whom warrants have been issued are served with the complaints they will immediately look over their registers on a certain date either January 18th or 14th with a view of discovering who were the guests on that particular day. The complaint alleges that the proprietors used oleomargarine on a particular day and naturally the proprietors will want to know who has testified against them. They will find the name of W. W. Chadwick on the register, for I get my own evidence.

Cannot Detect Difference.

"My method is to stop at a hotel or restaurant, as the case may be, and ask for a meat. When the waters are not looking I take a sample of the dish served as butter, look it up in a little receptacle I carry for the purpose and carry it to the state chemist at Madison. The sample is then analyzed and on the strength of the report of the chemist I proceed in the matter. It is impossible to tell oleomargarine from butter without an analysis.

"That reminds me. A short time ago I met one of the most prominent dairymen in the state at Madison and I wished to learn if he could tell oleomargarine from butter. He said he could when asked the question, and I handed him a sample. He tasted it, smacked his lips and replied: 'Ah—fool knows that is the best of creamery butter.' I laughed and told him that he was mistaken; that it was oleomargarine. There is no way to tell it but by analysis.

"When I was in the city January 18 and 14th making my rounds I visited some twenty four or thirty hotels and restaurants and the one against whom warrants have been issued is the only one I could find that used imitation butter.

Generally Two Violations.

"I would like to say that these places are subject to arrest on two accounts; the first, for using butterine with coloring, and the second for not having a sign posted, notifying people that butterine was served in that place. I do not wish to prosecute the hotel proprietors, I simply wish to stop the use of butterine in violation of the statutes, and for that reason will not proceed against them on the other possible count. There is no punishment provided for the use of oleomargarine if it is not colored and a notice that it is used is served upon the person to whom it is given; the violation of either of these admonitions of the statute is punishable by a fine of from $50 to $500.

"It may be of interest to the general public to know that the Wisconsin law is copied almost word for word from the law of Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. Both of these laws have been carried to the supreme court and declared constitutional.

"Pink Law" Was Not Good

"The law passed by Minnesota providing that oleomargarine must be colored pink, has been carried to the higher court and found unconstitutional for the reason that, as the court stated, you could not compel a person to color it a certain color, but could prevent him from using a color that would make it resemble butter and tend to deception in its sale. In this state no case has yet been carried to the supreme court; most of the fines imposed under its invocation have been paid without complaint and all in which convictions have been secured."

Mr. Chadwick has been doing excellent work in the line of enforcing the laws covering food and dairy products, and his many Janesville friends will congratulate him on the excellent record that he has made.

TRAMPS ARE COMING AROUND

Quiet Spell at the Bastille Has Been Broken

Turnkey Brown says that the article which recently appeared in The Gazette in reference to the scarcity of tramps in Janesville this winter, seems to have the effect of drawing them here like magic.

For several weeks past, not a dozen tramps in all have found shelter in the local bastille.

Sunday night a total of fifteen hoboes applied at the jail for a night's lodging and the following night an even dozen filed in and requested to be cared for during the night. They were all accommodated.

DETECTIVE GETS HIS MONEY

The Clinton Banker Must Pay for Detective Work.

The case of Michael Harkin vs. A. Woodward, was tried yesterday in the circuit court for Walworth county, in the city of Elkhorn. The plaintiff is a detective, and was employed by the defendant, Archibald Woodward, a Clinton banker, to ferret out the guilty parties who were setting fire to buildings at Clinton Junction, there being so many that it was generally believed that they were of an incendiary nature. The price agreed upon was $225. The plaintiff was very successful, and not only found the perpetrator, but evidence enough to convict him, and he is now serving a term in the state prison at Waupun. The case was tried in the Rock county circuit court.

The plaintiff was put off from time to time when he demanded his pay. He began an action in the municipal court for this county and secured a judgment in the amount stipulated in the contract, but an appeal was taken to the circuit court and on a change of venue the case went to Elkhorn where judgment was again obtained. Sutherland & Nolan, of this city, appeared for the plaintiff, and E. D. McGowan, also of this city, appeared for the defendant.

WILL SPEAK AT WHITEWATER

Rev. W. A. Hall, of This City Will Attend the Celebration This Evening.

There will be a Washington Birthday gathering at Whitewater this evening. It is to be held in the Methodist church, The Mandolin club of that city will discourse sweetest music and Rev. Walter A. Hall, of this city, has been chosen as the speaker of the evening. He will speak on Washington, his deeds—and his triumphs. The Methodist church of Whitewater has a very large auditorium and as Mr. Hall has many friends in that beautiful city, a large gathering is expected.

Mr. Hall will repeat the lecture "How to Reach Your Top Shelf," given recently in Jefferson and other places, at Darien next Friday night. This is certainly a very practical and should be an intensely interesting subject.

Doubtless he will speak to a full house. Mr. Hall has instituted a course of bible study on the "Life of the Messiah." A little booklet giving the incidents of the life of Christ in their chronological order, and arranged in groups or analytically, will be used in this study. These booklets will be given free to all who attend the Thursday evening meetings at which time the subject is to be discussed. This course will be of very high and lasting worth.

COXEY'S LECTURE TONIGHT

"Trip to the Circus" Will Be the Bill at Myers Grand

Tonight at the Myers Grand opera house, Willard D. Coxe will appear in his illustrated lecture "A Trip to the Circus," and judging from the advance sale and the general interest evinced in this attraction a big audience will be in attendance. For absolute novelty "A Trip to the Circus" stands far in advance of all other moving picture entertainments of the day. The views are all original and a number of years have been spent by Mr. Coxe in gathering data for his lecture. Among the moving pictures are those showing the advertising brigade in advance; the arrival of the show; unloading the circus trains; erecting the tents; the commissary department; an entire street parade; the side show "opening"; the rush to see the freaks; the menagerie; the performance in the main tent; behind the scenes and the concert. Following the regular lecture a number of special motion pictures and stereoscopic novelties will be introduced. Mr. Coxe is a brilliant speaker and his assistant, Mr. Philo R. Hay, is one of the best lantern men in America. The lecture will commence at 8:15 o'clock.

..LATE NEWS BY TELEGRAPH..

THE MARKET REPORT.

Chicago Board of Trade Quotations—
Prices for Live Stock.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—After a good many ups and downs today over a 1/4c range May wheat closed exactly where it did yesterday; July wheat at 1/4c decline. Bulls and bears were equally confident in their position on the market, and the news of the day was not of a character to seriously alarm either of the two parties. Crop damage news could be had to suit all tastes, but as far as next harvest's prospects were concerned the bulls had a little the better of it in view of another cold wave being headed this way. Corn was firm; oats in good demand, both for speculation and shipping account, and provisions wanted by shorts.

Quotations were:

Chicago Live Stock Markets.
Chicago, Feb. 21.—Very moderate Tuesday receipts went slowly today at slightly lower average than the day before. Demand for cattle was slim and some of the light grades and stags were left locked up, meeting with no demand, while good, smooth steers and butchers' stock sold quite as well as Monday. Morning sales of hogs were at 2 1/2c decline, but later trade had better tone, with prices about up to Monday's level. A small run of sheep and lambs proved a burden, trade ruling slow and feeble throughout the week closing values of Monday. Today's receipts, estimated at 2,500 cattle, 1,500 hogs, and 8,000 sheep, make 21,140 cattle, 57,449 hogs and 29,411 sheep for two days, against 17,655 cattle, 68,376 hogs and 31,946 sheep for the same time last week, and 17,040 cattle, 47,866 hogs and 33,369 sheep for the same period last year. Offerings were more closely bought up all around than the night before and most local dealers considered the outlook rather more favorable for tomorrow's trade.

NATURAL GAS COMBINE.

Company to Control Plants in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.
New York, Feb. 22.—The Central Union Gas company has been organized under the laws of Virginia to control the natural gas wells and plants in Ohio, Indiana and southern Illinois. The capital stock will be $24,000,000, of which there will be $10,000,000 7 per cent cumulative preferred and $14,000,000 of common stock. Of this authorized capital $10,500,000 is to be retained in the treasury for the purchase of companies and plants. The consent of eleven large gas producing plants has been obtained, so it is said, toward entering the pool. These are the Dayton, Tippecanoe City, Covington, New Western, Piqua, Sydney, Troy, Springfield, Urbana, South Charleston and the Mount Sterling gas companies. It is asserted that these companies are earning $600,000 net per annum. This amount, it is expected, will be sufficient to provide funds for dividends at the rate of 7 per cent upon preferred stock and 3 per cent upon the common stock, with the prospect of a considerable increase at once from economies which will result from the consolidation.

Although it is not believed that the supply of natural gas is likely to become exhausted, yet provision has been made for such a contingency, by the acquisition of additional fields, to be controlled by the Central Union Gas company.

Dangers of the Grip

The greatest danger from la grippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure la grippe in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Peoples' Drug Co., corner Main and Milwaukee streets.

HEART DISEASE.

SOME FACTS REGARDING THE RAPID INCREASE IN HEART TROUBLES.

Do Not Be Alarmed, But Look For The Cause.

Heart troubles, at least among the Americans, are certainly increasing and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of American business life, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, of poor digestion.

Real organic disease is incurable; but not one case in a hundred of heart trouble is organic.

The close relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by the same great nerves, the Sympathetic and Pneumogastric.

In another way, also, the heart is affected by the form of poor digestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half digested food. There is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their action; hence arises palpitation and short breath.

Poor digestion also poisons the blood, making it thin and watery, which irritates and weakens the heart.

The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion and to insure the prompt assimilation of food.

This can be done by the regular use after meals of some safe, pleasant and effective digestive preparation, like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which may be found at most drug stores and which contain valuable, harmless digestive elements in a pleasant, convenient form.

It is safe to say that the regular persistent use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at meal time will cure any form of stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

Full sized package of these tablets sold by druggists at 50 cents. Little book on stomach troubles mailed free. Address T. A. Stuart, Co., Marshall Mich.

Sold by the Sheriff.

Tacoma, Wash., Feb. 22.—At the sheriff's sale of the property of the Tacoma Land Company to satisfy the claim for $763,000 against it the purchaser was the Provident Life and Trust Company of Philadelphia. The price paid was $637,000, but a judgment to cover the deficiency of the claim will be secured.

Bargain seekers should not fail to visit the dining rooms of The Mrs. Clark Co. 151 153 Wabash Ave., Chicago, which is the very center of the shopping district. This restaurant has the finest cuisine and service in the city and the prices are moderate.

The restaurant on the 7th floor of the Association building in La Salle street is also run by this company and is equally inviting and attractive.

PATRIOTIC SOCIETY MEETING.

Daughters of the American Revolution

In Session at Washington.
Washington, Feb. 22.—The morning session of the congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution Tuesday was devoted almost entirely to a discussion of proposed amendments to the constitution. The president, Mrs. Manning, introduced Miss Susan B. Anthony and Mary Wright Sewall and other prominent members of the National Council of American Women. Recently in session here.

In the afternoon the society decided to take up immediately for disposition the question of reducing the amount of dues payable to the national treasury. The proposition was that the local chapters should retain three-fourths of their dues instead of turning one-half of them into the national treasury, and in the struggle which followed the opposing factions waxed warm until finally the votes showed that the congress decided to continue the present system, by a vote of 245 to 149.

Amendments to the constitution adopted include the following: Precluding the election of honorary vice presidents general as long as the number of these officers is thirteen—representative of the thirteen original states; no one is to hold more than one active office in the society at the same time, and vesting in the continental congress all legislative and judicial power in the National Society of the Daughters.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Two out-bound Chicago and Northwestern passenger trains had narrow escapes from being wrecked Sunday night by boys who, for the sake of seeing a collision, piled old iron and a handcar on the track and then sat down on the rails half a block away to watch results. Toledo Expects a Big Flood.

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 22.—Business interests along the docks are making active preparations for a flood, which, it is expected, will be as disastrous as the big flood of 1883. The heavy rains of the past two days have broken the ice in the river and a gorge is forming in the lower bay. Ice has been backed into the bay from the lake and the situation is critical. The river-front firms are moving goods out of warehouses and for the first time in fifteen years preparations are being made for a big flood.

HEALTHY MATERNITY.

Two Grateful Women Tell of the Help They Have Received From Mrs. Pinkham.

The climax of life force in woman is capable motherhood. The first requisite for a good mother is good health. Health of body means health of the generative organs.

Read what Mrs. G. A. NONNAMAKER, Bluffton, Ohio, says about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and how well it prepared her for maternity:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I must say a word in praise of your Vegetable Compound. I used three bottles of it when I was pregnant, and labor was not nearly as long as it was with my other babies; and my baby is so healthy to what the others were. I think every woman should use your Compound when pregnant, it will save them so much suffering and misery. I cannot say enough in praise of it. If ever I need medicine again, I shall use your Compound." The most successful tonic known to medicine for women approaching maternity is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a safeguard for every woman who uses it, and the fullest benefit comes from its use with Mrs. Pinkham's advice freely offered to all women. Her address is Lynn, Mass.

Here is a convincing statement, bearing directly on this subject, from Mrs. E. BISHOP, of 1848 Pacific St., Brooklyn, N. Y.:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I am a great believer in your Compound. I was almost despairing of ever again being well, as I was a great sufferer, and had been for years. I suffered from womb trouble, and had terrible blind fits. After writing to you I tried your Compound. The result was astonishing. I have used it and advocated it ever since. In childbirth it is a perfect boon. I have often said that I should like to have its merits thrown on the sky with a search-light, so that all women would read, and be convinced that there is a remedy for their sufferings."

THIS DAY IN HISTORY.

1782—Birth of Washington.
1778—Rembrandt Peale, celebrated American painter, born in Bucks county, Pa.; died 1826.
1810—James Russell Lowell, poet, author and diplomat, born in Cambridge, Mass.; died 1881.

1841—Battle of Buena Vista, Mexico, defeat of Santa Anna's Mexican army by American volunteers under General Zachary Taylor. The watchword of the Americans was "The memory of Washington."
1845—Uprising in Paris: beginning of the revolution against Louis Philippe. The national guard declared in favor of reform and united with the people in demanding the dismissal of the ministers. Barricades were erected in the principal streets, troops and citizens fraternized, and by night the city was in control of the mob.

1875—Sir Charles Lyell, eminent geologist, died.
1900—Edgar Wilson Nye, the popular American humorist, died near Asheville, N. C.; born 1851.

RAISE GOOD HORSES.
As Rock county has always been famous for the production of good horses, the special report on the market for American horses in foreign countries which has just been printed by order of congress will be of interest.

The report shows that the export trade in American horses has rapidly increased within the past five years.

With the exception of Russia and Hungary, the European nations do not produce as many horses as they need, and of late years have drawn upon America, particularly the United States and Canada, to supply the deficiency.

Europe wants good horses of all breeds, but there is a large demand in London for American bred, and bus horses. There is also a demand for high-class carriage horses with good knee action—showing horses and well bred. These bring high prices.

The report describes the various horses needed to supply the foreign markets, and urges the breeders of the United States to make a systematic attempt to produce such horses as those markets demand. It shows also, that besides the usual demand for horses for private and business purposes, there is in Europe a continual annual requirement for horses to remount the cavalry. While it does not seem that European nations are looking to this or any other country to supply them with army horses in time of peace, nevertheless there is no law or regulation which interferes with the sale of American horses for military use in any European country, and in time of war most of these countries would be compelled to seek horses where those of a desirable character were to be found.

The total number of horses exported in 1893 was 2,967, valued at $718,607, and in 1897, 39,532, valued at $4,769,269. Of the horses exported in 1893, 564 went to the United Kingdom, 1,600 to Canada, 33 to Germany, 457 to Mexico, and 2 to France; in 1897, 19,350 to the United Kingdom, 3,992 to Canada, 4,897 to Germany, 4,213 to Belgium, 1,884 to Mexico, and 32 to France.

The report was printed by direction of congress for free distribution, and an allotment placed at the disposal of the Department of Agriculture. Until the supply is exhausted copies may be had by applying to the secretary of agriculture. The report may also be obtained from members of congress.

Good horses always bring good prices—poor horses are worthless. Therefore Rock county farmers should raise only animals of good breed, and a ready sale at remunerative prices will be the result.

THE ARMY BILL
Washington dispatches say that the president has again conveyed assurances to some of the party leaders in congress that he will certainly call congress together in extra session if it fails to pass the Army Reorganization bill at the present session. In answer to repeated inquiries, the administration has declined to accept propositions for tiding over the needs of the army by a joint resolution, simply extending the appropriations on the basis of the present organization. The status of the volunteers would, it is said, be extremely unsatisfactory, and there would be absolutely no assurance that the president could retain them in service were the emergency great. The same statement would apply to the regular army soldiers who enlisted for the war under special stipulations.

Another very serious objection to the joint resolution program, too, according to the war department officials, would be its failure to supply the staff and line officers absolutely needed. These officials say that the pending bill provides for just 822 original appointments of second lieutenants, and it is declared to be the policy of the administration to divide these places among the states and territories on the basis of the population.

General Miles now declares that he "never said it" and that the newspapers misrepresented him. The admission comes too late. If General Miles had made the statement months ago, he would have stood much higher in public estimation. For instance, he now disowns the interview in which he was quoted as referring to the use of "embalmed beef" under "the pretense of experiment." Why did he not say so a long time ago? It was this expression that upset General Engan, and caused "the late unpleasantness," but General Miles now says he didn't say it!

President McKinley said in his Boston speech: "Many who were impatient for the conflict a year ago, apparently heedless of its larger results, were the first to cry out against the far-reaching consequences of their own act." Notably the yellow papers. The sheets that howled loudest for war are now the ones that are carping about the dangers of "imperialism."

Great damage was the result of Jack Frost's determination to spend a portion of the winter season in the south. Vegetables were frozen as far south as Tallahassee, Fla.

The appointment of Horace A. Taylor, of Wisconsin, to be assistant secretary of the treasury, to succeed William B. Howell, has been confirmed by the senate.

As it will take two years to lay a cable in the Pacific, and as the cable is urgently needed, congress should give the matter immediate attention.

Men who have the "tobacco habit" pay $86,000,000 a year in taxes of various kinds that are levied against the weed.

RESOLUTION OF RESPECT
Adopted by the Directors of the Janesville Machine Company

The following resolution was adopted at a special meeting of the board of directors of The Janesville Machine Company, held February 20th, 1899:

The earthly life of our honored friend and fellow member, Richard Wiggins, having closed,

We, the Board of Directors of The Janesville Machine Company, in special meeting assembled, desire to express to his family, our heartfelt sympathy with them in their loss, our sincere regard for him who is gone, our great appreciation of his life and character, and our deep feeling of loss by his removal from our midst; to his countless friends, our sense of his sterling worth, his wide usefulness and his genial and lovable disposition; and to the public, our tribute to his unimpeachable character, his sound business judgment and his conscientious discharge of every duty.

For years he has been associated with us on this board, and by his presence and counsel has aided us in all things for the good of the company.

His death but impresses more forcibly upon us his many virtues and the beauty of his character. It is unnecessary for us to say more, for his life in this community is more eloquent in his praise than any eulogy framed in words. The example of his unselfishness, of his strict integrity, of his genial and charitable manner of life, and of his noble christian manhood has had its uplifting influence on all who knew him, and he has left behind him the imperishable memory of good deeds. He has gone, without fear, to that eternal reward which remaineth for the righteous and the upright heart.

IT'S A POPULAR PLAY
Uncle Josh Spruceby at the Grand Saturday Evening

The attraction at the Myers Opera House will be "Uncle Josh Spruceby." War does not seem to effect this popular production, as they are playing to crowded houses at every stand. Mr. Lewis is an up-to-date manager, always on the lookout for something to please his patrons. The talent engaged for this season are people of ability, and the play is produced in magnificent style. Many specialties are presented and they are all new and catchy. A carload of special scenery is used and the sensational saw mill scene is presented with all its startling realism. A fine street parade is given at noon, at which time a splendid concert of popular music is rendered. The company carries twenty people and is the biggest organization on the road playing at popular prices. Remember the matinee Saturday afternoon. Popular prices.

EARLY SETTLERS' ANNUAL MEETING

HELD AT Y. M. C. A. BUILDING LAST NIGHT.

The Fifth Annual Meeting Last Evening Proved a Great Success, and Was Largely Attended by Members and Their Friends—One Hundred and Fifty Were Present.

The fifth annual meeting of the Early Settlers' club was held last evening at the Y. M. C. A. building. The members and their friends began to arrive early and the joyful sound of supper was announced at 6:15 and in the neighborhood of one hundred of the members and their friends took seats at the festive board, although preparations had been made to feed twice that number. Rev. A. C. Kempton, of the Baptist church, invoked the Divine blessing.

After the appetites of those present had been appeased and full justice had been done to the bountiful spread which was furnished by the young men of the Y. M. C. A., President Jackson called the meeting to order for the transaction of business.

The male quartette composed of the following: D. D. Bennett, E. O. Kimbrey, J. D. Crawford and Archie Crawford, rendered a double number, "The Land of the Free," and "Home Again," which was well received by the music lovers.

Owing to the absence of the treasurer, Stanley B. Smith, W. T. Vankirk was given his report to audit, but the gentleman "left it home on the piano," however, the balance in the exchequer of the club was not so large, but he could remember it and reported a balance of ninety-two cents in the treasury.

Mrs. Len Burs, one of the committee on necrology, reported the following deaths since the last meeting of the club, and gave a brief sketch of each: John C. Jenkins, Mark Honeysett, John T. Wilcox, John Nichols, A. M. Carter, Mrs. James Sutherland, Mrs. Margaret Mitlinore, Mrs. Lucetta Paul, Mrs. Effie Wilcox, Mrs. Anna Doe, Mrs. Betsey A. Richmond.

D. D. Mayne, a member of a committee appointed at the last meeting of the club to write a history of this city, informed the gathering that the work had not been finished, but was in proper hands and progressing finely.

W. J. McIntyre, who was appointed on a committee to secure the history of Rock county reported that only about one-half of the towns had been heard from and that some of the members of the committee refused to act.

At the meeting last evening the name of the club was changed from the Early Settlers' club to the Early Settlers' Historical club.

A local history committee has been added to the committee already in vogue. The length of time a person must reside in the state to make them eligible to membership was changed from twenty-five years to twenty years, and no doubt the change will greatly increase the membership.

Hereafter the annual meeting can be called at the pleasure of the executive committee.

Dr. J. B. Whiting, A. P. Lovejoy and W. J. McIntyre were appointed as a committee on nominations and while the gentlemen were preparing their report the quartette rendered "My Old Kentucky Home," in a most pleasing manner.

The committee on nominations reported as follows:

President—J. W. Sale.
Vice President—Pliny Norcross.
Secretary—Fred L. Clemons.
Treasurer—Stanley B. Smith.

The treasurer cast the ballot for the club and the above list of officers were duly elected.

The balance of the evening was passed very pleasantly, the entertainment committee having prepared a program for the entertainment of those present.

Capt. Norcross read a letter from Justice J. B. Cassady, of Madison, who stated that he regretted that it was impossible for him to be present, owing to business matters.

Mayor Thoroughgood gave a brief sketch of the early history of Janesville, giving a list of names of those who had served as mayor since the incorporation of Janesville; also a list of the fire chiefs and the years they had served in that capacity.

Rev. Pence, pastor of the Presbyterian church, gave a most interesting sketch of the religious history of the city, including all denominations.

Dr. J. B. Whiting gave a sketch of the pioneer doctors of the city, which was very interesting indeed.

Victor P. Richardson spoke of the early manufacturing industries, which dated back to 1847, when the building of the upper dam commenced. Mr. Richardson showed clearly that he was thoroughly posted on the early days.

The quartette then sang, "The Dearest Spot on Earth, to Me, is Home Sweet Home."

Stanley B. Smith spoke of what had been done in Janesville in a literary way, and paid a glowing compliment to Mrs. Abbie Ford and Bill Minter.

M. G. Jeffris talked of the old legal rights, who let their lights so shine that they will be remembered through many generations to come.

J. K. P. Porter, of Porter, was presented at the meeting and read a poem. During the evening the Y. M. C. A. and rendered many selections that are enjoyed by all present.

The club extended its thanks to the Y. M. C. A. band and the members of the quartette.

Thus ended an evening's entertainment that was a source of pleasure and profit to all those in attendance.

MR. SOULMAN SAYS

PLACES ARE OPEN

HAS NO GRIEVANCE WITH HIS MEN.

He Takes Exception to Certain Statements Made, and Says He Wants Men, and Does Not Bar Anyone Who Desires To Go To Work.

"I desire to say that there is no grievance between myself and my men," said John Soulman today. "The fact that I got shaved at the non-union shop was the cause of the trouble. I notice that a representative of the union says that the union knew nothing about the shaving matter until informed of it by me. This is a mistake, as one of my men had before that notified me of the action of the Trades Council, so the union could not have been ignorant of the action. I have always complied with the regulations of the union and paid union prices. And more than that, I have voluntarily paid a dollar more than union prices on some kinds of work. Up to the time of this shaving matter came up, there was no trouble at my place, and my men and myself get along nicely. I have no feeling against them now, and they are welcome to come back to work if they want to. They, however, have barred themselves out. They fired me for destroying the labels. I will never pay that fine, and until I do pay it, under the regulations of the union, no man can go to work in my shop."

The Union's Action

"Therefore, they are prevented from working for me by their own action, not mine. I have employment to offer cigarmakers. I do not draw any line as to age, color, nationality, politics or unionism. Any of my former employees who want to return to work can do so."

"I resented the bringing of the shaving matter into the difficulty, on the ground that I could do, personally, as I saw fit. I have never dictated to my men where they should trade, although I have suggested to them the mutual advantage of their spending their money with my customers when they could get the goods they wanted as cheaply of my customers. The only thing that I have insisted that all my employees must do, was to pay their bills."

"In regard to the labels, I will say this: Perhaps I was hasty in burning them up, but the use of the label was optional with me. When I used them, it was to further the principles of the union, not to further my own interests, as in very few instances, have I ever been ordered to put the label on the boxes, by any customer."

Are Not Compulsory.

I could do as I pleased with the label, if union regulations were followed; and the regulations always have been followed. I do not care to keep this discussion up, but I think a little injustice was done when the statement was made that the union knew nothing about the shaving matter until I informed the men, for as I have stated, one of my men had given me my first information on the subject. All I ask is justice. I resented what I thought was an interference with my personal right to patronize any barber that I saw fit. The places at my shop are open to any competent workman who wants a job. The men who were formerly employed by me are not barred. As long as there is a vacant bench, any of those men who desire to work there can do so. I am not refusing them employment, but their union regulations prevent them from going to work. Therefore, the thing is even. They are depriving themselves of employment as much as I am depriving them of employment."

"I shall not pay for the labels. They did not cost to exceed 15 cents. They were furnished me to use as I saw fit, and more for the benefit of the union than for my benefit. As I said before, perhaps I was hasty in burning them, but whether or not I should use them for me to decide. No, sir. There is no grievance between myself and my men, and their places, if there is a vacancy, are open to them any time they want to go to work, at union prices."

HONOR GEORGE'S BIRTHDAY

Public Offices Were Closed Here And Many Flags Displayed.

George Washington's birthday was observed throughout the city today in the usual way.

All city and county offices, courts, banks, and the schools were closed in honor of the father of our country.

At an early hour this morning Janitor Benjamin Hilt caught the patriotic feeling and made known the fact by the vigorous ringing of the Jefferson school house bell.

Flags were swung to the breeze on all the school house buildings as well as the court house and they indeed made a handsome sight fluttering in the air made white by fast falling flakes of snow.

JUDGE PATTEN'S ACT VOID

Judge Fish Presiding at Elkhorn Thus Decided Yesterday.

A most important legal point was involved in the case of Michael Aarkin vs. A. Woodard, which came up at Elkhorn yesterday.

The point arose on a question of law which was as to whether the judge of the municipal court of this county has any power to delegate authority by the appointment of a justice of the peace to preside during the absence of the regularly elected judge. When the judgment for the plaintiff was rendered in the municipal court, Judge Patten presided in the absence of the late Judge M. M. Phelps, under an appointment for that purpose which the act creating in the municipal court provided for. This the defendant claimed was void and that Judge Patten had no power to act. Judge Fish held that the municipal judge had no power to delegate such authority, and that the acts of Judge Patten were void, but he also held that because the defendant took an appeal and thereby conferred jurisdiction upon the circuit court and the plaintiff was entitled to a new trial. Considerable doubt has been expressed by the bar as to the correctness of the ruling, that an appeal from a void judgment to a superior court confers jurisdiction.

BRITTON LANE NEAR DEATH

Grandson of Colonel and Mrs. W. B. Britton, of This City.

Britton Lane, eighteen years old, son of Maurice T. Lane, a Chicago art dealer, and grandson of Colonel and Mrs. W. B. Britton, of this city, came near being drowned in Lake Michigan yesterday afternoon.

The young man started out from the boat club at 1 o'clock with a light skiff to hunt ducks. After rowing out about a half mile he pulled in his oars, when a duck floated in sight. Taking careful aim, he pulled the trigger, and the next moment found himself in the icy water.

The recoil of the gun had capsized the boat. Lane grasped the stern of the overturned skiff, and tried to swim for shore, pushing it before him. He is an expert swimmer, but dare not leave the boat, as he was afraid of being unable to keep above the cold water long enough to reach shore. His cries brought the life saving crew to his rescue.

UNITED BRETHREN

DEFEATED IN COURT

JUDGE BENNETT DECIDES AN IMPORTANT CASE.

Brought Here From Grant County and Involved $3,500—Question Was Over a Will Made Out by Thomas Stewart, Who Failed To Make It Read Plain Enough.

Judge John R. Bennett, of the circuit court of Rock county, has just handed down a most important decision in action of A. J. Hood, administrator, vs. Dominick Dorer.

The interested parties reside in Grant county and are prominent.

The question at issue involved the ownership of real estate and personal property to the value of $3,500, all of which is located in Grant county.

Thomas Stewart, a wealthy and prominent farmer of Grant county, died about ten years ago, and in his will he left real estate and personal property to the value of about $3,500 to his wife for her own use as long as she lived, and that upon her death this property should go into a fund for the relief of superannuated ministers of the United Brethren of Christ.

But Mrs. Stewart could not see it that way and a short time ago it was discovered that she had sold the property left her by her husband to Dominick Dorer.

Then the superannuated ministers in all portions of the country, who belong to the United Brethren of Christ, rose up in a body and at once commenced legal action against Mr. Dorer for ejection on the grounds that the will had not been properly carried out.

The superannuated divines of the United States claim to be 235,000 strong and those belonging to the Wisconsin conference were the ones mainly interested in the fight over the possession of the Stewart estate. When the case got into court it was then plain to be seen that there was trouble among the superannuated ministers themselves. It was then brought to Rock county for trial. The ministers then disagreed as to just who belonged to the United Brethren of Christ, several holding that there were ministers in the organization who claimed to be members, but who really were not on the grounds that they belonged to secret societies.

In 1815 the ministers belonging to the United Brethren of Christ adopted a constitution which provided that the confession of faith should never be changed but the constitution also provided that it might be amended by a two-third vote.

In 1889 the constitution was amended so as to admit members of secret societies. Then was when the trouble commenced. Ministers to the number of 25,000 then and there declared themselves true to the old constitution, declaring that they were the only United Brethren and that the balance of their supposed brethren were not members of the organization. Then the question arose in court which faction was entitled to the property left by the late Mr. Stewart.

The court, after giving the matter due consideration, held there was nothing in the will that positively indicated just what superannuated ministers were entitled to the property in question and that the bequest was void for uncertainty.

The case was a hard fought one on both sides and to say that several hundred ministers are a disappointed lot of divines is probably not half expressing their feeling.

Was a success without a precedent. The store was taxed to its overflowing capacity. It was a hustle all day long in spite of the unfavorable weather. It shows that the buying public have learned that we always fulfill our promises to the letter. Eracilio Solis, Highwayman.

By JOHN HEARD, JR.

Concluded.

A good man may come out of it as a good man still, but his goodness is no longer a power. It is merely a latent, useless quality, not to say a weakness. Even that is the exception rather than the rule. A strong man usually becomes a bad man, and a bad man grows worse. So it was with me. My vitality, my energy and strength were neither broken nor impaired, but with only bad influences around me I became a leader of bad men. Revenge was my only thought, my only dream, my aim and purpose in life. In that prison I planned my subsequent career and formed the nucleus of my present band of brigands.

"You may have heard of our escape? It was dynamite—horrible—so bloody that the people realized that a family of human tigers had broken loose, and that the public safety was endangered. Still, senior, it was some time before I began my work of revenge, for I did not feel I could rely on my men in an emergency. As for myself, I was lacking in coolness, nerve and the practice of cruelty, which I knew I should need in the future. So for two years I did no more than rob coaches, raid a ranch or two, and fight the soldiers sent out against us by my former chief. He was no longer governor when he heard of my escape, and knowing that he had a dangerous foe in me he fled to the capital. When I was ready—not so very long since—I raided and destroyed his ranches one after another and in such quick succession that there was no time to prepare defenses. I killed his men, drove off his cattle, burned his haciendas and wrecked his mines, until on the verge of ruin he was obliged to come here himself and attempt the rescue of his property. Then I tracked him from place to place. Finally I captured him at the Descauso. For years, Don Juan, I had exercised all my ingenuity in planning new, unheard-of, monstrous tortures for this man, but when we were alone face to face in the big hall of the rancho house, when after all these years I saw him in my power—this man whom I hated with every fiber of my being—when it flashed over me what I might have been but for him, what I was because of him, by heaven, I burst into tears!"

Solis paused a moment. He drew his hand over his forehead—he had been talking vehemently—his face was quivering, but almost immediately he stood up and said, "I shot him down like a cur!"

He walked away to the end of the porch. He stood there so long that I turned to see whether he had gone. No, he was apparently watching the men who were harnessing the mules. When he came back, all traces of emotion had disappeared, but he looked at me as if expecting me to say something. I did not know what to say, and he sat down again opposite me.

"Ah, Don Juan," he began again, "that's what a brigand is made of—just a man, wrongly developed. Some day—who knows—you may hold me up. Come now, tell me honestly what do you think of me? A miserable rascal, eh? An embarrassing question?" His margin was so narrow between good humor and the most violent passion that I hesitated at passing judgment upon the fine animal before me. I could only admire.

"You have been very unfortunate, Don Eracilio," I said finally. "I believe you might have been a great man in your country." And I put out my hand. Solis grasped it eagerly, and he still held it as he said:

"I thank you, Don Juan; I shall not forget you. Will you take a little thing to remember me? My end is not far off, senior. I believe that I am on the down grade. So far revenge was my right, but that is past now, and for the future what can I do? I am not a brigand by nature. If I had something to live upon, I should probably turn to my books again, for of course I can never be a public man now. But as it is I don't own 10 pesos in the world; besides I have a duty toward my men, I must stand by them, as they have stood by me."

"I suppose you must, Don Eracilio, unless you were to leave the country. Wouldn't you do that?" I suggested.

"Impossible!" he said. "No, no, I can't do that"—but he did not explain. We sat awkwardly for a few moments after our conversation. Any other topic seemed out of place—yet silence was embarrassing, so it was a relief to see the horses coming ready to start. I rose, tightened my straps, and Eracilio asked, "You are going home, Don Juan?"

"Yes, by a roundabout route, but I shall come back here."

"I wish I were going, too," he said, "but where? If you come back, we must meet again. You may find me a better man—or, if not, a far worse. Vaya!" he cried, pulling himself together suddenly. "Today I am at the zenith of my power. Come, drink another glass with me—a big glass this time—here's to luck!"

At the stage we shook hands again, and the mules started on a gallop.

The remembrance Eracilio gave me was the little gold bell—thus it came into my possession. Subsequent events proved that Eracilio's presentiments were well founded. His day was over, and from that day forward his existence became more and more precarious. His men felt he had lost his grip, and they in turn lost their unbounded confidence in him.

One day the troops surrounded their camp, and though the majority of the bandits cut their way through the cactus thicket Eracilio remained behind. When the soldiers came upon him, he was seated on a boulder beside the bodies of two of his men. Cautiously the soldiers closed around the famous outlaw, but he neither moved nor noticed them. Now that escape was impossible, many a man among his captors wished it were otherwise. For Eracilio was a popular hero, an ideal to many a Mexican heart. He had often defended them against the law, when it was unjustly applied, he had been kind to the poor, and they loved him. Not a few in the line of troops owed him thanks for some good deed or timely help. But it was too late.

A young officer stepped forward and, covering him with his revolver, called out:

"Eracilio Solis, in the name of the nation, you are my prisoner!"

The highwayman raised his head, gauged his captor, and smiled. Then he looked around at the circle of soldiers, drew himself up and without paying any further attention to the lieutenant, he spoke to them.

"Friends," he said gently, yet firmly, "the time has come, and I am more glad than sorry. Perhaps more glad than any man here. Try henceforth to remember whatever good I have done you and to forget the harm. You are all sons of Mexico, and I charge you, let that be ever uppermost in your thoughts. Because I forgot the duty every man owes to his flag, I stand before you now an enemy of my country, which no man ever loved more than I. Many of you are my friends, yet I am your common enemy. The good of the country requires that I should die. So let it be here, at once and at your hands. I do not yield. I command. Salazar, and you, the five next, step forward! Are you ready? Good! Now, when I drop my arm aim low and steady. This is my last request."

"Eracilio Solis, in the name of the nation, you are my prisoner!"

Eracilio looked up at the pale, hard sky overhead and across the ragged line of cactus brush, so typical of his country. Above in the overhanging dome a buzzard, the eagle of Mexico, arched slowly round and round. He followed it with his eyes, until it alighted on a tuna near by. Beyond the sierra, purple and blue and white, crowned the horizon, and while he gazed with a faraway look over their heads the men leaned on their carbines and waited.

Then the outlaw raised his hat and the locks clicked—a moment later the simultaneous bark of the six carbines crashed through the silence. Eracilio fell. Salazar alone had understood. The other five with mistaken generosity had shot wild.

Turkish Press Censorship.

The censorship is so strictly applied to the Turkish press that it was forbidden to give any account of the murder of the Empress Elizabeth at all resembling the truth. According to the accounts that were allowed to appear, she was taking a walk and was suddenly seized with illness. She fell to the ground, got up again, and again fell unconscious. In half an hour she was dead.

The use of the words anarchist, nihilist, etc., is forbidden, so the newspapers have been saying "disturbers of the peace," "lawless element," etc., but now the censorship has forbidden even these and has required the substitution of "Utopians" and "Utopianism."

In order to maintain the fiction that all north and central Africa, so far as it is Mohammedan, is subject to the sultan of Turkey, it is forbidden to mention the English advances in the Sudan. If anything is said, the names of places must be changed, for the Sudan, Kongo, for Lake Tchad, the lake of Kuka, and for Erythraea, Schoa.

The Fortune Teller.

"It's wonderful," said the credulous man, "simply marvelous."

"Have you been to see that fortune teller again?"

"Yes."

"Don't you think most of those people are animated by purely mercenary motives?"

"This one isn't. Just think of his being willing to go on telling fortunes at $1 apiece when he could give himself a tip on a horse race or a lottery drawing and get everlastingly rich inside of 24 hours!"—Washington Star.

Peppermint on a Savage Farm.

A modern application of Samson's parable, "Out of the strong came forth sweetness," is provided by the district council of Sutton, in the county of Surrey, England. That body carries on a singular industry. It grows peppermint on its savage farm and manufactures peppermint oil. About four and a half acres of the farm are given up to the cultivation of peppermint plants, and grow luxuriant crops. The yield of oil is nearly $150 per acre, and the price last realized was $6.12 per pound.

EMPERESS' MURDERER.

How the Slayer Will Be Treated in Prison.

The prison of L'Eveche, at Geneva, in which Luccheni is now undergoing his sentence, was built about fifty years ago. Today, no doubt, it is not up to the last improvements, but nevertheless it is superior to the majority of prisons in Switzerland and in many other countries. The prisoners in L'Eveche pass the nights in cells built on three floors, and opening on to inside galleries. During the day they work together in workshops. Luccheni will be subjected to the treatment common to all prisoners condemned to penal servitude for life. His cell, like all the other cells, will be about three and a half meters in length, two meters in width, and two and a half in height. The daylight enters by a longitudinal opening, protected by iron bars and a slanting shutter, which allows him only to see the sky. His furniture will consist of a bed composed of a pallasse, sheet and coverlet, and a table and stool; he will be allowed to make himself a bracket, and to decorate his walls with any pictures he may happen to acquire. In winter he will get up before daylight and will go to bed at nightfall. There are no lights in the cells. During the night his clothes will be removed from his cell to prevent any attempt to escape. During the day he will work in the workshops, unless he prefers to work in his cell, which he will be permitted to do. He will work at carpentry, bookbinding, making boots or wooden shoes, sorting coffee grains, etc., etc., according to the aptitude he may show, but without speaking a word to anyone, except to his jailer when his work requires it. He will receive a small portion of what is gained by his work. His meals will consist of coffee and milk in the morning, a vegetable with boiled potatoes in the middle of the day, soup in the evening, with 645 grammes of bread a day. On Thursdays and Sundays the vegetable will be replaced by 250 grammes of meat. After each meal the prisoners have half an hour's exercise in the courtyard, marching in single file one after the other, the same as in every other prison. In winter, Luccheni will be dressed in jacket and trousers and cap of gray "milaine," with yellow stripe. On Sundays he can get books from the prison library, and can write if he wishes. He is allowed to receive during the year six visitors in the parlor, and in the presence of a jailer, but to receive or send letters only with the permission of the director of the prison, who examines their contents.

AN ENEMY OF LABOR UNIONS.

Judge Peter Stenger Grosscup, who has been nominated by the president to be judge of the seventh United States circuit court for the northern Illinois district, in place of the late Judge Showalter, has had a distinguished career since he was elevated to the bench which he now leaves for his larger sphere of duty. Prior to that appointment, which was made by President Harrison in 1892, Judge Grosscup was an eminent lawyer in Chicago. He came to that city in 1883 from Ohio, where he had been prominent in law and politics for some time. It is not generally known that Judge Grosscup once lived in the same congressional district with President McKinley when the latter was making his reputation in congress. In fact, Maj. McKinley was nominated for congress by the brilliant lawyer, who stumped the district for the success of the republican candidate. Mr. Grosscup himself was twice a candidate for congress in Ohio, and was well known in that state as a republican orator. The judge was born at Ashland, Ohio, in 1852. He is a graduate of Wittenberg college, and his early law reading was done in the office of Judge Thomas of Boston. He is an enemy of labor unions and has issued many injunctions against them.

Western Editors in Session.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Five western states were represented Tuesday at the twelfth annual convention of the Inland Daily Press association at the Palmer house. The association comprises sixty-one newspapers in small towns of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa, and, though less than a score of editors were present at the opening session, the program was carried out without interruption. The delegates reported an amendment to the constitution that associated members may be admitted on motion of the regular members. A committee appointed for the purpose reported to the convention on the advisability of uniting to furnish members with telegraphic news. J. E. Sutton, Reporter, Logansport, Ind., was elected president. The next meeting of the association will be held on the third Tuesday of June.

of wild beasts. She is making people gasp in Germany, where she is giving in all the principal towns an exhibition that proves very popular, as indeed it deserves.

This is a daily dinner in a lion's cage, with assorted wild beasts as pets.

Mlle. Heriot is British by birth. She begins by bossing the trick lions Nero and Sacha while they walk the tight rope. So far as the onlookers can tell, she rules her animal friends without inflicting cruel punishment. They dance the rope as if they liked it.

Then comes the great act. In the big middle cage a table is spread—a strong table, with dishes of food in abundance, but only one knife and fork. To this banquet Miss Heriot invites all her animals. They group themselves at one side of the table and behind it, while she sits down, cuts meat and feeds them and herself by turns.

If one of the lions shows a desire to get a morsel out of his turn, the mis-dress of the table taps him on the nose with a big spoon and says "Der boese Knabe!" and the "bad boy" draws back with a meek and contrite expression. On the whole it was a well-behaved dinner party, which F. Specht, the artist, sketched at the Nils Zoological Garden in Stuttgart. Mlle. Heriot learned to tame lions at the Leipzig Zoological Gardens.

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman's—Crowning Virtue.

BELTON, Mo., July 27.

For years I suffered terrible pains every month, and my doctor told me I could not be cured except by an operation. I felt I could not submit to that and was so despondent I had given up all hopes of a cure. My husband insisted on my trying Wine of Cardui and at last thank God I did try it. Last month I did not have a pain, and did all my work, which I had not done in seven years.

MRS. MINNIE LITTLE.

Wine of Cardui

Modesty is the crowning virtue of American women. It is the trait that all mankind admires. A modest woman is the most pleasing of all created things. Because of this becoming virtue thousands of women prefer to suffer untold miseries rather than confide their troubles to a physician, and to even think of submitting to an examination is revolting. They can't get their own consent to an operation. Wine of Cardui permits sensitive women to retain their modesty. With it they can cure "female troubles" in the quiet of their own rooms. If special treatment is required they can write to the Advisory Department of the Chattanooga Medicine Co., and their letters will be promptly answered by women trained in the cure of womanly weaknesses and irregularities. There should be no hesitation. Delayed treatment means a chronic condition. The longer postponed the harder to cure.

JAPAN AIDS THE FILIPINOS.

Mikado's Government Sells Arms to the Rebels.

CONSUL WILDMAN IS ALERT.

Chinese Authorities Induced to Confiscate 20,000 Rifles and an Immense Stock of Ammunition—Evidence That Aguinaldo Plotted Wholesale Murder

Hongkong, Feb. 22.—Through United States Consul Wildman comes news of the discovery of 20,000 rifles and 2,000,000 cartridges stored on lighters at Nankin by Filipinos and ready for shipment to the islands. The American minister promptly induced the Chinese authorities to impound the munitions, thus inflicting a hard blow to Aguinaldo.

The extraordinary thing is that the Japanese government sold the arms to the regular agent of the Filipinos at Yokohama, although, for the sake of appearances, a form of auction was used. The Japanese officials, it develops, offered 100,000 rifles, with machinery for loading and ammunition, to the Filipinos in September. Traitorous Americans here are also aiding the insurgents to smuggle arms.

WISH AMERICAN RULE.

Negro Islanders Voluntarily Hoist the Stars and Stripes.

Manila, Feb. 22.—Negro island, where the adherents of Aguinaldo claimed much strength and which they said would strenuously resist the Americans, is voluntarily submitting to the authority of the United States. Advances to this effect were brought by the transport Newport from Iloilo.

The stars and stripes were voluntarily raised over Negro island by the inhabitants after the capture of Iloilo by the Americans under Gen. Miller. Four native commissioners arrived here to offer the allegiance of the inhabitants and claim American protection. They say the insurgent force in Negro is small. An American garrison will be sent there.

Advices by the Newport say all is quiet in Iloilo. Gen. Miller's forces are also occupying the outlying towns of Jaro and Molo, while there has been some skirmishing during the night. The insurgents have a force of 2,000 men, armed with bolos (long knives) at Santa Barbara.

Trouble in Camarines.

Manila, Feb. 22.—The native governor of Camarines, the gold district in the southern part of the island of Luzon, has issued a proclamation declaring that the Americans intend to make the Filipinos slaves. He has 400 rifles, four antiquated cannon and many spears and bolos to arm his 600,000 natives. The English inhabitants have been compelled to lower their flag and a ruinous tax has put all shipping to a standstill there.

Plotted Wholesale Murder.

Washington, Feb. 22.—A general massacre of the Americans and all foreigners in Manila on the night of Feb. 15 was plotted by the rebel Filipinos. This is proved by the orders issued for the intended rising by Aguinaldo's so-called government at Malolos. A copy of these orders has fallen into the hands of Gen. Otis, and was by him transmitted to the war department.

Occupied by Americans.

Manila, Feb. 22.—Advices from Iloilo are to the effect that Gen. Miller has sent troops to Santa Barbara, which is now occupied by the Americans. This is an important town, sixteen miles from Iloilo, with a large population.

After the Grip—What?

You thought you had the best of the grip and you determined to wear it off; but somehow it does not wear off as you expected. You pass restless, sleepless nights and get up in the morning more exhausted than when you retired. You are irritable and nervous and have no appetite for your food. You go about in a listless, half-hearted sort of way, and everything you undertake to do seems to go wrong. Do you know that you are on the verge of nervous prostration? You need help; and you need it more than you did when the grip was at its worst.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is the best medicine you can get to build up your shattered nerves and restore your wasting strength. It invariably insures sound sleep and gives the overstrung nerves their natural rest. It makes the appetite keen, facilitates the digestion, gives healthful vitality to the nerves and restores health.

"I was nervous, restless, irritable and altogether out of sorts. It was impossible to get my natural sleep and I became so weak and exhausted that could not leave my bed. Finally I commenced taking Dr. Miles' Nervine and I began to improve from the first dose. In a short time my health was completely restored."

A trial package of Dr. Miles' favorite treatment for La Grippe, consisting of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills, will be sent absolutely free of cost to any person sending name and address on a postal card, requesting samples, and mentioning the name of this paper address.

JEKYL ISLAND DEER.

Swim Across St. Simon's Sound in Search of Food.

It has always been claimed that the game on Jekyll island would not leave the island, but reports from St. Simon's come to the effect that numbers of the deer are swimming across St. Simon's sound and landing on the beach near Ocean pier, says the Savannah (Ga.) News. The result of this is that numerous hunters are getting shots and enjoying venison in such quantities as they have never enjoyed that delicacy before. It seems that the deer on Jekyll have increased so numerous within the past few years that they are no longer wholly wild, but at night come up around the clubhouse and play around the flowers. Their depredations on the choice beds of the millionaires' favorite plants became so troublesome that a strong wire fence was built and now incloses some acres of the ground immediately around the clubhouse. This kept the deer away from the flowers, but it did not do anything toward stopping them from increasing in numbers. When the storm came it carried away lots of the vegetation that the deer had been feeding on, and there was not enough left to go around. The deer then commenced to figure on going off to get something to eat, and it ended in their seeking St. Simon's. It is a good swim across the sound to St. Simon's beach, but they made it, and now the hunters string along the coast and watch for them to come. Sometimes men are in boats crossing the sound, and see the deer coming. A chase ensues over the water, and frequently the deer turn back toward the Jekyll shore and seek refuge in the woods of the island. They seem to know that no one is allowed to place his feet on Jekyll without permission from the club, and in this their instinct tells them that it is better to swim a long way back and get safe on Jekyll than it is to swim even a short way to St. Simon's and then run the risk of being hunted by men on foot and horseback after they get there. It is a novel state of affairs, but it is safe to say that one-half of the deer could leave Jekyll and there would still be enough left for the millionaire sports who visit that place to have all they wanted to shoot at.

STATUE FOR A VASSAR GIRL.

Monument to a Northern Woman Is Erected by Women.

There are very few monuments in the United States, or even in the world, erected to commemorate the virtues and gifts of a woman. New Orleans has its beloved statue of Margaret, the poor woman who helped poorer women to buy their daily necessary bread. There is now on foot a project in the North to erect a monument to another woman, Miss Beulah Walworth, a Vassar student who lost her life last year at Montauk Point. The statue will commemorate a woman, and is to be erected by women. The project has been started by the collegiate alumnae, and will be proposed to the continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution, which meets in Washington on February 22d. Miss Walworth was herself a daughter and went to Camp Wadsworth as a nurse. Her mother worked assiduously for the comfort of the sick soldiers there, overseeing the diet kitchen and lending a hand wherever she found need. Worn out with nursing and exposure to unaccustomed hardships, her daughter took typhoid fever, and in spite of the best of care did not recover from it. Miss Magee, one of the board of the Philadelphia chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, told a pretty story—recently in connection with Miss Walworth's death. The vice president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. Daniel P. Manning, arrived in Albany the night before the funeral and heard for the first time of the brave girl's death. She had no one to consult about sending a memorial and the services were to be held in Saratoga the next morning, so she took the responsibility upon herself and sent by a special messenger a white wreath tied with handsome red, white and blue ribbons, in the name of the whole Daughters of the American Revolution. Miss Magee says that when the national congress met and heard of Mrs. Manning's act they seconded it with their heartiest approval and responded in warm appreciation of her quickness and thoughtfulness. But now the daughters want to erect a monument more lasting than flowers. There is no doubt that the suggestion of a memorial to the college girl who heroically gave up her own life for the fever-stricken soldiers will appeal to everyone. The gift is to be made a national affair.

BORROWING HABITS IN CHINA.

How a Person May See His Own Goods on a Neighbor's Table.

Chinese butlers have a way, when their own supplies fall short, of borrowing from the neighbors. At least, this was a very common custom twenty-five years ago, and goods changed hands over the garden wall with astonishing celerity, the butlers, meantime, keeping a strict account. An American lady residing in China writes thus in the Atlantic: At the first large dinner party to which I was invited—I went as a bride—I found myself eating with my own brand-new knives, forks and spoons. I stared at them very hard; there could be no mistake, for I could see the fresh monograms. I was dreadfully distressed, but did not dare to say anything. When I reached home I told my husband, rather tremblingly, for I was quite sure they had been stolen. To my amazement he only laughed and said: "Oh, you will get used to that soon, and when you have too many guests you will find that, instead of asking you to get more supplies, the butler will just borrow your neighbors', and always make up the deficiency." And so it proved. I can well remember once, when my husband had asked eight guests in to dinner only half an hour before the usual time (one for each of the delicious first spring snipe he had shot), that there appeared later a splendid roast leg of mutton as one of our courses. Now, I knew we had no mutton, for earlier in the day the cook had bewailed the non-arrival of the Shanghai steamer, by which it always came. Turning to the gentleman on my left, I asked: "Did your steamer come from Shanghai today?" "Yes, why?" I looked down to the other end of the room, where my husband was carving the unexpected treasure-trove with very evident enjoyment. "Well, ours did not," said I, "and yet—" He caught sight of the mutton. "Oh!" he laughed, "I suppose that is mine. No doubt yours will come tomorrow, and probably be much better; so I shall be the gainer this time, and enjoy it all the more."

A careful measurement of the track in Mechanics' pavilion, over which such phenomenal scores were made, shows that riders keeping eighteen inches from the inside edge would travel fifty-six inches over a mile every eight laps, instead of the exact mile with which they were credited.

EXTRA SESSION NOW SURE.

Fifty-Sixth Congress Will Meet Tuesday, March 14.

CALL SOON TO BE ISSUED

Important Measures Cannot Be Passed by the Present Body—Senator Cullom Is Authority for the Extra Session Statement.

Washington, Feb. 22.—The indications are that the fifty-sixth congress will be convened in extraordinary session Tuesday, March 14. President McKinley will not issue his proclamation until the afternoon of March 4 and will thus give the newly elected members only ten days to make the journey from their homes to Washington.

A few senators and representatives still believe an extra session can be avoided, but there is an overwhelming majority who believe the other way. President McKinley has reached the conclusion that an extra session is unavoidable, but he will not, of course take official notice of the situation until after the final adjournment of the present congress at noon, March 4.

The president had a conference with a number of leading republican senators Tuesday and agreed with them that no concessions should be made to the minority in regard to the army reorganization bill. The republican program is to keep the Hull bill ahead of all legislation, so that with its failure most of the appropriation bills will likewise fail to pass.

Senator Cullom said for the first time Tuesday that he regarded an extra session as inevitable. He made this remark as he left the white house, where he had been in conference with the president on the general situation.

HOUSE TALKS OF NAVY.

Price of Armor Plate Is the Only Serious Snag Now in Sight.

Washington, Feb. 22.—The house reached the last page of the naval bill Tuesday and adjourned with a point of order pending against a provision fixing the price of armor plate at $545 per ton. The provision in the bill went out on a point of order, on the ground that it was not limited to the armor to be purchased with the appropriation in the bill, whereupon it was modified to meet this objection, and against it the point of order, pending an adjournment, was raised. At the opening of the session Brucker (dem.) of Michigan denied that he had voted in the negative on the bill appropriating $20,000 for payment to Spain. He had voted in the affirmative and the journal was corrected. Mr. Henderson (rep.) of Iowa, chairman of the committee on January, which investigated the right of Gen. Wheeler of Alabama, Mr. Robbins of Pennsylvania, Mr. Colson of Kentucky, Mr. Campbell of Illinois, who held commissions in the army, and members who served on several commissions to continue to hold their seats in the house, formally presented the report of the committee, which was in favor of the view that the four members who accepted military commissions thereby vacated their seats in the house. Messrs. De Armond (dem.) of Missouri, and Parker (rep.) of New Jersey were given leave to file a minority report, in which they will contend that the same rule should govern members who accepted civil commissions.

PLEAD FOR A LARGER ARMY.

Reorganization Bill Under Discussion in the Senate.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Formal discussion of the Hull-Hawley army reorganization bill was begun in the senate Tuesday. Mr. Hawley and Mr. Warren, republicans, supported the measure and Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Cockrell, democrats, opposed it, while Mr. Proctor, republican, addressed the senate in favor of some amendments which he had proposed to the bill. All the speakers are members of the committee on military affairs.

The postoffice appropriation bill was passed, Mr. Butler of North Carolina and Mr. Pettigrew of South Dakota having concluded their speeches.

A house bill withdrawing from entry and sale and granting to the state of Wisconsin certain lands was passed.

A message was received from the house transmitting the bill passed by that body appropriating $20,000,000 to be paid to Spain in accordance with the terms of the Paris treaty. It was referred to the committee on appropriations.

Bills for Public Buildings.

Washington, Feb. 22.—The senate committee on public buildings and grounds made favorable reports on public buildings as follows: To increase limit of cost of the building at Omaha, Neb., to $1,800,000; Elgin, Ill., $100,000; Eau Claire, Wis., $50,000; Columbus, Ga., $50,000; Joliet, Ill., $100,000; Stockton, Cal., $150,000.

Bill Passed Over Veto.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 22.—The bill known as the Hammond court bill, which the governor vetoed Monday, was passed over his head. It provides for superior court meetings and buildings at Hammond and Michigan City.
